SECTION 8: LEADERSHIP AND ADMINISTRATION

Academic Leadership

Lamar University

- In the position as the Endowed Chair, I have made significant contribution to development of research strategy at the Department of Speech and Hearing Sciences (SPHS). During the last 4 years we have measurable increase in research output, funding, more faculty actively publishing and also student involvement in research activities. This was made possible by working closely with the faculty and students and mentoring their research activities. In addition, have initiated few seminars series (external speakers presenting at the department which open for all faculty and students; and data discussion over lunch for faculty).
- Have developed active research collaborations with other departments within LU, other Universities within United States and many well-known department and universities internationally.
- Have conducted a major curriculum review of the Doctor of Audiology (AuD) program and have implemented number of changes to both academic and clinical teaching, which helped remove the probation on accreditation from CAA.
- Established study abroad course at SPHS and have successfully conducted the study abroad course in Sweden (2015), Guatemala (2017), and Costa Rica (2018).

- Have established contacts and working relationships with audiology and speech pathology clinics in more than 10 countries. This means Lamar University students can have short-term international clinical/service placement opportunities in these clinical sites.

Anglia Ruskin University

- Developed top-up B.Sc in Hearing Sciences program. This program employed blended learning and created a new academic route for graduates of Foundation Degree in Hearing Aid Audiology worked as Hearing Aid Dispensers. This was the first such programs in the UK. This initiative was considered controversial in the beginning, but endorsed with high interest and the program has become very successful within a few years.
- Reviewed and streamlined Foundation Degree in Hearing Aid Audiology program. This included: making substantial changes to the curriculum; developing new admission and communication policies; introducing innovating online learning tool to increase the accessibility and learning outcomes for distance learning students; and also negotiating new terms with the external learning partner company.
- Re-designed and modernized the clinical skills facilities with an internal grant of £150,000 ($225,000 USD). This initiative significantly improved student ratings and helped grow the student enrolment.
- Established ERASMUS Exchange program between Anglia Ruskin University and ESTSP-IPP, Portugal during 2013-14.

Swansea University

- Served as the Program Manager of B.Sc Audiology during 2007-2013. During this time made number of changes to improve the quality of the program and was key in making it a nationally known program with application numbers increased to ratio of 1:15. Also, helped convert the four-year program into 3-year program after the Government introduced new guidelines/regulations. During this phase, contributed significantly to develop system in place to ensure the program quality and the student learning would not suffer as a result of compromising one year of study.
- Lead the accreditation process for the programs B.Sc Audiology and Diploma in Hearing Aid Audiology with professional/regulatory bodies such as: Hearing Aid Council (HAC); Health and Care Profession Council (HCPC); The Registration Council for Clinical Physiologists (RCCP); British Academy of Audiology (BAA); and Medical Education England (MEE).
- Involved in curriculum development and ongoing review of the courses: B.Sc Audiology; B.Sc Healthcare Science (Audiology), B.Sc Osteopathy, and Certificate in Higher Education (Basic Audiological Practice).
- Established ERASMUS Exchange program between Swansea University and ESTSP-IPP, Portugal in 2010-13.
- Involved in conducting educational clinical audits of audiology departments across Wales (15 audiology departments). Established a clear process and policies for monitoring and conducting internal verification of the student assessments by clinical educators across Wales.
